Subject: Betting Thoroughbreds

During this Covid-19 crisis, I would like to wager on some thoroughbred races. But the casinos are shut in Nevada, and Betting Venues such as DRF Bets & TVG online betting are closed to Nevada residents.

It would be nice if Nevada's restrictions on these Venues were removed during the pandemic.

Please give this matter your consideration.

Thank you,

My name is Alan Feldman and I serve as Distinguished Fellow in Responsible Gaming at the International Gaming Institute at UNLV. Previously, during my 30 year career in the gaming industry working for both Mirage Resorts and MGM Resorts, I helped explain the industry's benefits, relevance, and importance to an often skeptical public around the world.

I also became extensively involved in problem gambling and responsible gaming issues. Today I serve as Chair of the Nevada State Advisory Committee on Problem Gambling and the Chair of the International Center for Responsible Gaming and am active in several US, Canadian and International PG/RG organizations.

As a Nevadan, I take great pride in the fact that Nevada has led the world in gaming practice, innovation and regulation for the entirety of the industry's commercial history. It is to our state that the world looks to find the latest policy advances through strict regulation of all persons, locations, practices and associations in the industry.

I am here today in response to the Industry Notice issued May 1 concerning health and safety guidelines for reopening. Responsible gaming constitutes an essential health and safety issue of critical importance to the industry and our state. It is therefore of critical importance to the public, the industry and the state that there is the inclusion of responsible gaming in the final health and safety guidelines for licensee reopening.

As our state confronts the health and safety issues of reopening, we must recognize that virtually all Nevadans entering casinos will have seen their financial situation decline. Our economic recovery should not include placing anyone in harm's way.

During these unprecedented times over the last 3 months, many customers may have experienced significant life events related to the pandemic that operators need to be cognizant of and have plans in place to address. Experiences that have traditionally been known to contribute to problem gambling may have been experienced by many returning customers, such as isolation, loss of income, loss of a loved one, or unemployment. These experiences may contribute to customers using gambling as an escape from the stress of the pandemic or as an attempt to recoup lost income.

It is vital that Nevada acknowledge this new reality in the context of gambling by encouraging licensees to enhance their responsible gaming programs to identify and appropriately respond to the unique circumstances created by COVID-19. This could include measures such as providing enhanced training to employees, creating specialized messaging for guests, and/or revalidating credit decisions.

Just as the guidelines previously issued by the GCB on this matter do not constitute new regulation, to be clear, I am not suggesting regulatory change but, rather, guidance so that licensees are encouraged to have player protection on their to-do list as the state reopens.

All of us at the University stand ready to support the Gaming Control Board, The Gaming Commission and the industry in any way we can to help facilitate recovery in a healthy and productive way and ensure that the public receives the necessary protections under these unique circumstances.

Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: Public Comment May 6th

Gaming Control Board

May 6th, 2020

Dear Chairwoman Morgan and Members of the Board,

I would like to submit the following public comment for the May 6, 2020 meeting of the Gaming Control Board.

My name is Jennifer Shatley. I previously served as the Vice President of Responsible Gaming Policies and Compliance for Caesars Entertainment and now consult for a multitude of stakeholders, including operators and problem gambling non-profit organizations. In addition, I serve as the President of the Nevada Council on Problem Gambling and as a Research Assistant at the International Gaming Institute.

Throughout my twenty-two year career, I have advocated within the gambling industry to deliver gambling in a socially responsible manner. My focus has been to promote safer industry practices and provide protections for those who experience harm. My objective was to be mindful of the business while creating protections for vulnerable populations.

I believe, given the current circumstances created by COVID-19, this pursuit is now more important than ever. Most customers that will be returning to the casinos will have experienced life events that research has proven contributes to problems with gambling responsibly, such as loss of employment, isolation, extreme levels of stress, or loss of a loved one.

Further, this pandemic has caused many Nevadans to experience at least a partial loss of their income and, in many cases, incur tremendous debt. This may lead to desperation to use gambling as a means to attempt to generate revenue, further contributing to their precarious financial situation.

As you issue guidelines to protect the health and safety of casino customers, I hope that you will include responsible gaming as an important component in your guidance to Nevada gaming licensees as the public health of Nevadans is just as important as the economic health of Nevada.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,
Jennifer Shatley
