Hello. My name is Adam Christian. I am employed by Red Rock Resort which is owned by Station Casinos. I work as a server at T-Bones Chophouse and lounge. I have been there for 19 years.

I wear three union buttons at work every day. I have been actively organizing at Red Rock for 11-plus years and I have been placed on their MUD list as pro-union. I have been fighting for a union contract for many years.

I feel that discrimination from the company is causing me economic harm. They repeatedly move me out of my assigned section to put VIPs in those areas and also take tables away from me without any compensation.

President Donald Trump and Dana White came to T-Bones on July 7, 2023 and I was assigned the private dining room that day. But management moved me and my three union buttons out of my assigned area, yet again. Why do you think they did that? This discrimination is ongoing and costs me money.

My co-workers and I want respect. We want a contract. We want the discrimination to stop now.

Thank you.

Good morning. Jesus Landeros for the Culinary Union. You have just heard from a long time Red Rock Casino employee. The state of Nevada depends on gaming industry workers organizing for higher standards for themselves, their families and our community.

In terms of what Red Rock Casino employees endured, it is worth restating part of the decision reached in 2024 by the top labor law enforcement body in the United States.

“The centerpiece of the [Red Rock Casino’s] unlawful campaign was its tripart message promising and granting employees tremendous new benefits without the Union, threatening to withhold or withdraw these benefits if employees selected the Union, and implicitly threatening that selecting the Union could only lead to years of fruitless bargaining without any improvement to working conditions. This highly coercive combination of promises and threats was accompanied by a barrage of further unlawful conduct, including additional threats that selecting the Union would lead to withdrawal of “favors,” “extras,” or “help” that employees could otherwise expect from management, implicit threats of job loss related to strikes, and interrogation and discriminatory treatment of Union supporters. The coercive impact of these unfair labor practices was magnified because they were committed by the Respondent’s highest-ranking executives, including Red Rock General Manager and Station Casinos Senior Vice President for Human Resources, as well as other managers and supervisors at all levels.”

The top labor law enforcement body in the United States also decided that at Red Rock Casino “the most important unfair labor practices here were planned and executed by the Respondent’s and Station Casinos’ top management and owners, for the express purpose of interfering with employees’ [organizing rights].”

Red Rock Casino still continues to litigate this decision before the DC Circuit Court. We are confident that the facts and the truth are on the side of the workers. No gaming license holder should threaten, intimidate, interrogate or discriminate against gaming workers who power the industry. Thanks.
